Greetings, your Moonliness,

Many blessings upon you and your family from The Imagine Nation.

As you know, on Monday the 31st of January 2011, we here on the 11th and 12th floor of 60 Miller St, North Sydney, Australia, broke from the chains of motherland Australia. We are now flying like a majestic eagle upon the vast plains of independence.

I'm guessing that due to our newness as a nation the postal service is taking it's time to find us. As such, we haven't received your response to our previous letters to you. Let's not dwell on it. Instead, let me get you up to speed.

Our transition has been smooth. We've gathered no intelligence that there is any sort of imminent military intervention from the Australian government. Which is good as we have no army at this point. Although, in the interests of full disclosure, one of our art directors has had some basic martial arts training. We are, however, determined not to use this force in an act of aggression on Australia unless absolutely necessary.

Please write back to us as soon as you can so that we know that you are ok. In these uncertain times you never can be too safe!

If you are not safe (if you have been kidnapped or something) please let us know also and we will send a task force led by the art director with the marital arts training to come and get you. It will be a David and Goliath struggle but I believe that, with courage in our hearts and justice on our side, we will prevail against any enemy.

I will check the mail twice a day until I am certain of your well being.
